Windows Registry Cleaner (RegCleaner) is a fast, reliable and powerful tool designed to help you troubleshoot problems with the windows registry. RegCleaner is a windows registry cleaner, a tool to cleanup and optimize the windows registry. Most of the time when an error occurs the registry becomes corrupted. Registry problems are very difficult to troubleshoot, because they might be caused by lack of proper use of the registry or by system errors. Usually, slow system performance is caused by excess system files, program files, temporary files, and windows registry. In this situation, the registry becomes overfilled and causes extremely slow performance. If you want to get the best performance from your computer, you need to scan, optimize and repair the registry to get rid of unnecessary files, bugs and other causes. RegCleaner provides registry repair and optimization tools that will help you solve common issues with the registry. It is a powerful tool, but don't let this scare you off. RegCleaner offers great features, but they are easy to use. What is a registry? The windows registry is a central repository for your software and hardware information. The registry is a database that stores the directory structure of all of the programs you have ever installed, as well as the hardware information for your computer system. Since windows cannot run properly without the registry, it is an important tool to help run windows programs efficiently. What is a windows registry cleaner? The purpose of a windows registry cleaner is to clean and repair the registry. When you start your computer, windows checks for updates to its software and hardware and then loads the programs. It also updates the registry file, then stops and waits to be told to restart. Once a program is running, it checks the registry file for new information. If a new program, hardware driver or patch needs to be installed, it will add it to the registry. If the system does not boot properly, or if it is old and run slow, then the registry will become dirty and slow. Why RegCleaner is important RegCleaner has powerful features to make your computer run fast, but you have to work hard to use them. With regular use, RegCleaner will help you clean up and optimize the registry, making it fast and reliable. This will help to fix the dirty registry, so it will run faster than ever before. When the registry is clean and optimized, it will run with almost no delay. RegCleaner is the best registry
